DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Applicant's amendment to claim 1 is acknowledged. Consequently, rejection to claims 1-18 as being unoperative under 101 is withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Note that the description does not discuss the first and second portions of an IMS database now being claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ahmad et al (US 5,745,748) of record.

Regarding claims 1, 18, Ahmad discloses that it is well known in the art to store copies of database description for downloading to PC in an IMS environment before accessing remote IMS files (see column 6, lines 6-38). Although Ahmad does not specifically show comparing said copies with the copy maintained in a first portion the database before accessing a second portion of said database, since the database description describes the physical structure of data, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to include maintaining a copy in a first portion of the database as one or more database records, comparing copies before each access to the database and determining whether the copies are synchronized in order to ensure correctness of the physical structure of the data before each use.

Regarding claim 5, although Ahmad does not specifically show that action has to be taken if said copy of the description and said description stored in said data management block are not synchronized, since incorrect database descriptions will likely cause problems, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to include such features in order to avoid problems arising from incorrect data descriptions.

Regarding claims 2, 9, although Ahmad does not specifically show comparing occurs before each access to said database, since the database description describes the physical structure of data, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to include comparing copies before each access to the database in order to ensure correctness of the physical structure of the data before each use.

Regarding claims 3, 10, since the database consists of records, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to store said copy of the database description within said database as one or more database records in the method of Ahmad.

Regarding claims 4, 11, although Ahmad does not specifically show a unique location dependent on said database organization, it is well known in the art that different databases possess different configuration. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to include the claimed features in order to accommodate different database formats.

Regarding claims 6, 12, 15, although Ahmad does not specifically show alerting a user, since the method of Ahmad involves a user (see the abstract), it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to include such features in order to allow user's intervention when necessary.

Regarding claims 7, 13, 16, although Ahmad does not specifically show suspending activity, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to include such features in order to prevent access to obsolete information.

Regarding claim 8, 14, 17, although Ahmad does not specifically show suspending activity until said description become synchronized, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to include such features in order to resume operation once problems are resolved.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
